HOLY GRAIL – FX TRADING SIGNALS

Holy Grail provides trading signals across multiple FX pairs, based predominantly on a combination of market sentiment and quantitative methods. Our objective is to consistently deliver growth for our clients while providing a safe platform for their capital through utilization of sound risk management practices and robust controls governance.

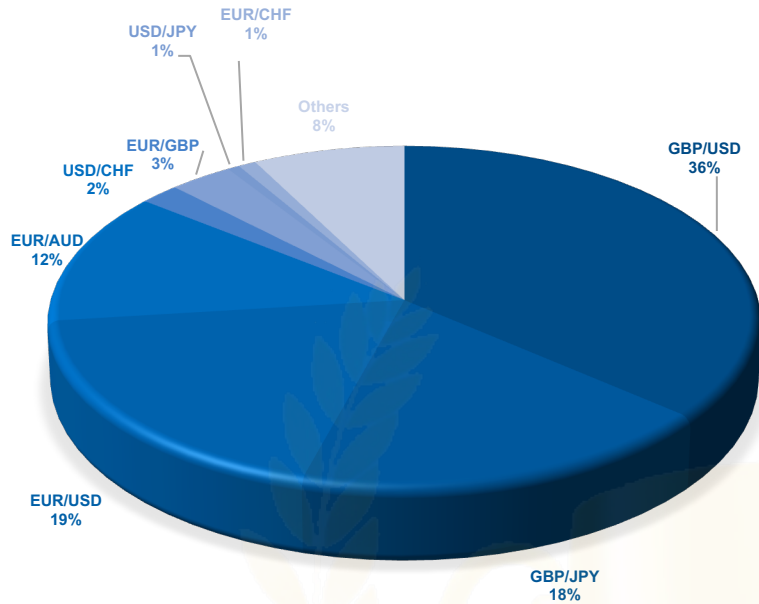

Our analysis and trading methodology will direct us to the relevant entry and exit points for the most prominent FX pairs. The strategic direction we employ is reliant upon volatility identification, trading volume profiling, supplemented by usage of various combinations of technical trading indicators.

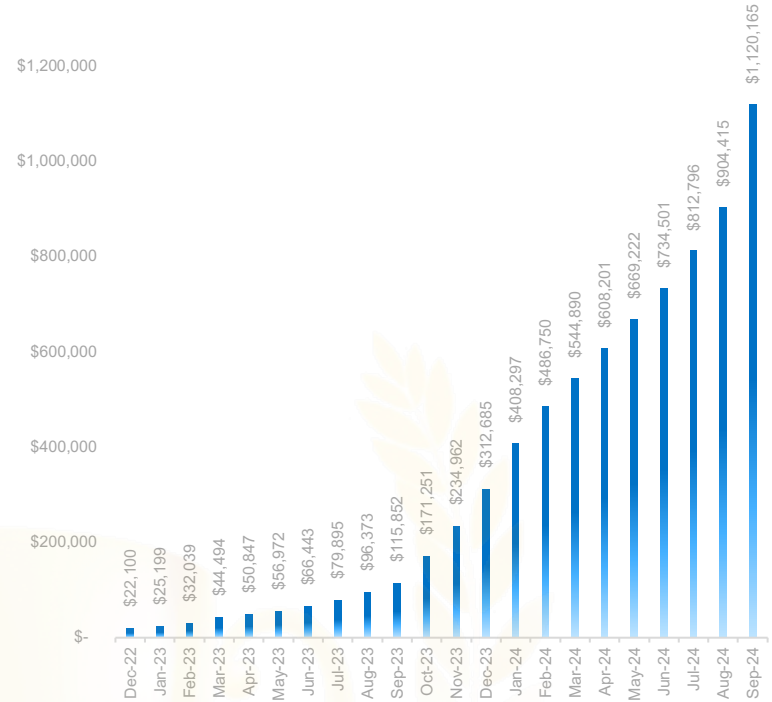

The risk management mechanisms we have in place may occasionally result in profit reduction, however, ensure maximum protection for our clients in their long-term initiative of profit and capital appreciation.

We highly recommend 0,01 lot per 2000 €/ $/£ capital due to our normal, non-excessive risk taking commitments. Opting for normal risk levels, will ensure availability of additional funds to top up in case drawdown increases to keep the accounts safe. This can be proven crucial in rare occasions that drawdown can be higher than normal, or you didn't have time to accumulate profits due to the timing of when you started copying the signal.

ABOUT US

Holy Grail's traders and analysts have accumulated over 10 years hands-on financial markets experience, spanning across different asset classes, while the channel has been offering day trade signals since December 2022. We have been constantly adapting our systems to suit changing market conditions. Our strategy aims to provide returns in volatile and uncertain markets. It has been created and run by our experienced traders post years of active participation in intraday and swing trading in the global financial markets. We primarily focus on the FX pairs depicted in the above graphic illustrations. As it is an active programme, positions can be traded over minutes, hours or on occasion days. There is no minimum holding period for your trading account. The average monthly ROI during Holy Grail's operations stand at 21.1%, while the Sharp Ratio for the same timeframe is recorded as 1.35.
